

Dear Church Family

I know you have been getting a great deal of communication from the church lately. Randy has been faithfully carrying forward the messages that were resulting from the discussions and decisions he and the elders were having. As mentioned, we have stayed vigilant in reviewing all of the latest information.

This morning, Governor Brian Kemp hosted a statewide conference call for the faith community leaders to hear directly from him. He has strongly recommended we not hold services through the end of the month. As a result and in an effort to abide by our state and national leaders, we are going to join in the community wide effort to prevent the spread of this virus. The following will be our course of action for at least the next two weeks:

- We will have Sunday services online only at 11 a.m. on Facebook.
- There will be a time of communion and methods for which to continue faithfully giving, so make whatever preparations are needed in order to join in.

Please be in prayer as our country and still untold numbers of our citizens deal with this. Take this time to be with your loved ones. Know that we are praying for each of you!

Also be looking for resources for children and youth coming from our staff. This will allow you to continue leading your young people at home this week. They will need things to do!

Again, no in-person services will be held at the church tomorrow.

Tune in online though as we use God's technological blessings and worship together remotely!

In Christ,

Jason Faircloth on behalf of the Elders
